I do not like the current anti-depressant that I am on. (Mirtazapine 15 mg)

I still have not yet seen my prescription bottle at all in any way.

My parents are still giving my one single pill each night. As they claim that is what the doctor instructed them to do.

This prescribing doctor is one that I have never met, to my knowledge. A doctor ROBINSON.

See attached Walgreens pdf of the prescription.

See attached screenshot of Walgreen's website.

He's not a doctor that I've ever had any contact with. At least not at Northlake Behavioral, or any similar facility.

The doctor that I had at Northlake was Dr. Rodriguez. But, idk they may be colleagues.

I don't like how the medication makes me drowsy.

I have enough problems with my narcolepsy as is and don't appreciate anything adding to my crippling exhaustion.

I also still don't think its necessary as im not depressed. I'm really only taking it b/c im forced too.

*Jeffrey: This medicine take 3-6 weeks to work - you are on a low dose - I would give it 2 more weeks at least to see if you have some benefit (might even T/b 30mg)
If you need me to call it in leave me*

Pharmacy phone # and your date of birth.

My understanding is you are going to someone new (Therapist + Psychiatrist)

I would strongly recommend an expert in Narcolepsy (I am not).

I would also recommend a Neuropsychological battery of test as this would help better understand your cognitive functioning.

Jeffrey I do set work by fax, email, or phone, if you want me to help you need to come see me.

Good luck and let me know

Dr. Blendell
