My front of mouth/tooth is hurting again. Same pain that was previously present before surgery.

Started hurting after/during brushing my teeth around 7:40 pm.

- Has been hurting a few times in the past two weeks sporadically
- Usually when water seems to like swish/go over it
- Like tonight when the water swish or go over it

Didn't brush on it tonight

- haven't been brushing that area much at all
- been avoiding it for months
- including the adjacent two teeth

Haven't brushed directly on that tooth (fr surgery)

- Yet at all
- I have tried extremely carefully to brush the adjacent teeth.
- By manually doing it above the gumline while right in the mirror. Looking at it myself to try not to touch the surgery tooth at all.

Pain started to hurt when water went over it

- Same nerve pain as before

7:48 pm another type of pain present

- haven't been brushing that area much at all
- been avoiding it for months
- including the adjacent two teeth

Haven't brushed directly on that tooth (fr surgery)

- Yet at all
- I have tried extremely carefully to brush the adjacent teeth.
- By manually doing it above the gumline while right in the mirror. Looking at it myself to try not to touch the surgery tooth at all.

Pain started to hurt when water went over it

- Same nerve pain as before

7:48 pm another type of pain present

- A throbbing (light) pain
- Not the same type of pain
- It's still throbbing as I'm writing this
- Dull aching/throbbing
- OTHER pain describe to the doctor

7:53 pm Other pain (non-nerve)

- at 7:53 pm still throbbing/dull aching
- not really bad by any means but it's definitely there
